

Creation Care Workshop

Friday, 11 February, 2022 (Online)

Join the Faculty of Divinity for this workshop for theologians, students, and church leaders to discuss the challenges of sustainability and climate change.

Creation Care and Theology 10am-12pm (ET)

Alexander J.B. Hampton, University of Toronto

Andrew Davison, University of Cambridge

Jacob Sherman, California Institute of Integral Studies

Charles Taliaferro, St. Olaf College

This session will focus upon the intellectual resources in the Anglican and broader Christian tradition that are present, but often unrecognized and underutilized, in our discussion of the environmental crisis.

Creation Care and the Church 1-4pm (ET)

Stephen Scharper, Trinity College, UofT

Rachel Mash, Anglican Church of Southern Africa

Sylvia Keesmaat, Diocese of Toronto

Elizabeth Perry, Anglican Alliance, Anglican Communion Delegation, COP 26

Mark MacDonald, Anglican Indigenous Archbishop, Anglican Church of Canada

This session will examine the needs of clergy and congregations in relation to the topic of creation care. Panelists will discuss example initiatives, practices, resources, and needs. The aim of the panel will be to consider how Creation Care in the curriculum could support new and current clergy.
